Over 100 Whales Schuman Plan May Produce Third Force End Cold

Paris, May 14 .-- Unofficial talks with Soviet representatives have taken place in Paris on the Schuman coal and steel pool plan—and the Russian reaction was not flatly hostile, it was learned here tonight.

The authors of the plan estimate that European steel pool could unite the production of over 44,000,000 tons, compared with the American output of 69,000,000 tons.

The authors estimate the united coal resources for a European pool as 514 million. against 440 million tons for America and 260 million tons for WEST

The implied suggestion is that the pool might cross the frontiers of the Iron Curtain and of the Atlantic Union.

One of the men who helped to fashion the plan said today that with Customs barriers for coal and sleel swept aside, and production rationalised throughout Western Europe, coal and sleet could be cheapened by 30, per-

Goals And The

THE importance of the comprehensive statement issued to mark the end of the Big Three Conference is less to be found in its content, though that is · masterly enough, than in the spirit underlying it. Lip service is given to no illusion. Soviet Russin, not directly named, is defined as the only militaristic and aggressive Power in the world. A guarantee is given that the strength of the free world, never before so harmoniously welded together, will never be used for aggressive purposes. Civilisation is faced today with a fanatical Communist menace, which has dangerously expanded its influence and control, and can only be met by faith, strength and unity-dynamic force. In propounding this thesis, the Foreign Ministers merely expressed what 'has become conviction throughout the Western World. But the statements are important, nevertheless, because they summarise more forcefully than ever before the premises, the goals and the means of a concerted foreign policy. In that sense they represent both a new milestone in the education of peoples and Governments in the realities of present-day international life, and an expression of determination to act on recognised truth. They are especially significant because they are made against the background of the plane incident in the Baltic, which revealed nnew both Soviet ruthlessness and Soviet mendacity, and because they provide a clearer frame of reference for today's meeting of the North Atlantic Council. Yet, despite the gravity of the Soviet menace and the increasing Soviet provocations, the most important aspect of the policy proposed is and remains its essential peacefulness and renunciation of force except in self-defence. Indeed, it again emphasises that we shall make no attempt to undermine Soviet independence, and that we shall continue to search for common ground of agreement with the Soviets, both within the United Nations and through other channels. This is in effect another forceful refutation of the Soviet campaign of vilification and another challenge to the Soviets to make good on their "peace offensive" by matching their words with deeds. But the Big Three make it clear beyond the possibility of misunderstanding that they cannot come to any agreement with the Soviets as long as they try to eliminate the Western democracy altogether, or to undermine by hook or crook the free countries of the world along the tried pattern of "one by one." And that statement must be read in the light of Mr Acheson's Berkeley speech, in which he laid down the terms of any peace which can be accepted-terms which include the. conclusion of peace with a free Germany and Japan and the withdrawal of Soviet military and police forces from the countries they now hold in subjection. Barring the unlikely eventuality of Soviet acceptance of these terms, there offers no other alternative except to continue waging "total diplomacy" based on the reassertion of faith in freedom.

Nationalists Not Welcome

May 14.—Emperor said today that his government would not permit the Chinese Nationalists to establish bases in Indo-China to assist in fighting the Communists.

In a written statement to the United Press, in answer to a questionnaire, Bao Dali sald, "Such action would not be, possible as we could not per-mit a foreign power to intervene in our internal affairs."

Asked about plans to win greater popular support for his regime, he replied. "The policy which we have shaped to obtain the support of the people has never changed. It consists, firstly, of realising our national aspirations and, secondly, to ustion."-United Press.

"I do not think that we necessarily face war, but I do think that we must develop better techniques and more strength to fight successfully the cold war," he stated in a radio interview.

"We have 600,000 men under orms, trained, many of them battle veterans, If that force is removed from the Communist path through exhaustion of our resources and all outside help withheld, how can the rest of Asia, with far fewer men, less equipment and no common front, hope to hold?

"And if Indo-China, Burma, Mainya and the Philippines fall, what hope then for America to have a line of Pacific defences?" Today, with our help, everyone President Truman made the cf them is stronger and better The President served a blunt warning: "No one nation can bring about peace, Nations can build a strong defence against aggression and combine the energy of free men everywhere in building a better future for all of us."

He added: "Isolation is no alternative. Isolationism would bring on another war, and it would be a war in which we might stand along against the rest of the world. In our own self-interest, therefore, we must co-operate with other free nations."

Since President Truman has a policy against political activity on the Sabbath, his speech did not blast the Republicans with the same vehemence that marked other talks along his "non-Pandit Nehru, India's Prime political" tour.-United Press.
